

REVELATIONS D'HUBERT DE BOÛARD

ANGELUS OWNER TO RELEASE 'AFFORDABLE' BORDEAUX RANGE

12th April, 2013 by Lucy Shaw

The project is a collaboration with Bordeaux négociant Yvon Mau.

The seven-strong range, to be distributed by Yvon Mau, has been dubbed Révélations d'hubert de Boüard.

Each of the seven wines come from châteaux within the Bordeaux AOC appellation, including Château de la Pierre Levée in Castillon, Château de Seglady in Saint Emilion and Château Grand Bouchon in the Médoc.

De Boüard has worked with each of the seven châteaux to consult on viticulture, help select the individual parcels and the vinification of the resulting wines.

"There's a gap between entry level wines and wines over €15 that we through we could fill," said Philippe Laquèche, managing director of Yvon Mau.

Paru le 12 Avril 2013

www.thedrinksbusiness.com

1 200 0000 visiteurs par mois

Hubert de Boüard, owner of Château Angelus in St Emilion, is to release a range of "affordable" Bordeaux wines onto the international market this year.

the drinks business

FRONT PAGE | SPECIALS | NEWS | DEBTS | US FOODS | JOBS | SUBSCRIPTIONS | ABOUT US | 08 APRIL 2013

WINE | SPIRITS | BEER | CHARITABLE | FINE VINE | PRODUCTS | USA | FRANCE | UK | ASIA | ARCHIVES

ANGELUS OWNER TO RELEASE 'AFFORDABLE' BORDEAUX RANGE

10th April 2013 by Lucy Shaw

Hubert de Boüard, owner of Château Angelus in St Emilion, is to release a range of "affordable" Bordeaux wines onto the international market this year.

The project is a collaboration with Bordeaux négociant Yvon Mau.

The seven-strong range, to be distributed by Yvon Mau, has been dubbed Révélations d'Hubert de Boüard.

Each of the seven wines come from châteaux within the Bordeaux AOC appellation, including Château de la Pierre Levée in Castillon, Château de Seglady in Saint Emilion and Château Grand Bouchon in the Médoc.

De Boüard has worked with each of the seven châteaux to consult on viticulture, help select the individual parcels and the vinification of the resulting wines.

"There's a gap between entry level wines and wines over €15 that we through we could fill," said Philippe Laquèche, managing director of Yvon Mau.

Two of the wines within the range, from Château Bouillon and Château Gallion, will go on sale at a recommended retail price of just €4.70 a bottle.

Topping the range will be a wine from Château Les Fougères in St Emilion priced at €11.60 a bottle.

The Révélations d'Hubert de Boüard range is set for large distribution in both France and other major export markets.

Two of the wines within the range, from Château Bouillon and Château Gallion, will go on sale at a recommended retail price of just €4.70 a bottle.

Topping the range will be a wine from Château Les Fougères in St Emilion priced at €11.60 a bottle.

The revelations d'Hubert de Boüard range is set for large distribution in both France and other major export markets.

YVON MAU

DEPUIS 1897

GRUPE FREIXENET